FOR THE SPIRIT OF THE AGE. Lines on the death of HENRY ALEXANDER, infant son of Henry and Bachael Gorman, who died on the 25th June, 1854.

Thou'rt asleep, little babe, from life's cold dream at To awake on a glorious morrow. And live in the home of the faithful and blessed,

Where there is no anguish nor sorrow. The green turf is laid o'er thy little still breast, In the grave-yard, where many are sleeping; Thy fair angel form shall no more be carressed, By thy mother who for thee is weeping.

Few, few, were thy days in this valley of tears, And many the evils before thee; A mother's warm heart full of hopings and fears, Has oft in affection hung o'er thee.

Thou'rt missed from the hearth, where thy innocen Was a blessing to all who were round thee; But why should we mourn when parted awhile, When we know that the holy surround thee,

Thou'rt blessed, for thy Father, who sent thee on Saw 't good to reclaim what was given; And the worshipping angels, who joyed at thy birth Have carried thee back into heaven.

Raleigh, 12th July, 1854. For the Spirit of the Age. To Mollie. Sad is the thought that we must part,

> And how forebodings fill the boart, To think the time so near! And the' we part I'll not repine, But, with a lover's pride, Rejoice to think that thou aft mine,

Since to each other dear,

And ALL thy love beside. And when morn does in splender fling Its beauty o'er the sea ; When birds their carols sweetly sing ;

My thoughts shall be of thee. When Sol in grandour climbs the sky, And rears his throne above ; Oh then my heart will longing fly To rest with thine, my love.

And when, exulting, twilight sings, O'er day light's swift decline, Its tuneful zephyrs shall not bear One sigh from me but thine.

nd now has come the time to part; To shed a tear were vain; For altho' absence wrings the heart, How sweet to meet again!

FOR THE SPIBIT OF THE AGE. Lines suggested by seeing a Lady walking the green accompanied by her pet Lamb:

O muse divine, thy aid impart, And cause me to declare, The sweet affections of the heart, Of woman fond and fair : What loveliness ! What gentleness ! Through her soft bosom thrills

Inspires her soul, Her thoughts control, While peace her bosom fills, Mid trying scenes she still retains Love's fond and tender care,

Still soothes the troubled heart of man. When serrow rages there; By friendship's fire, By love entire. She smoothed life's rugged road; The boon of life

Ah! what a pleasant sight to see. A maiden walk the green, Arrayed in all her gayety, With sweat majestic mein. With easy grace,

A tond fair wife

The Eden gift of God.

And smiling face. She blithely sings, An ode to Spring,

And plucks the fragrant flower. There you behold the gentle Lamb, Caress its mistress fair, While o'er the verdant lawn it bounds And snuffs the evening air.

Its plaintive bleat, Its playful guit, Portrays fond innocence; Emblem bright. Superbly bright, Of its miscress leveliness. Person county, N. C.

DIDN'T FOLLOW IT - 'I am so glad to find you're ketter, said John Hunter, the famous surgeon, to the equally famous actor Foote, one morning; 'you followed my prescription, of course ?

'Indeed I did not, Doctor,' replied Sam "for I should have broken my neck." Broken your neck! exclaimed Hunter in amazement.

'Yes,' said Foote, 'for I threw your prescription out of a three story window.'

A lady who rose from obscurity to great wealth by the successful speculations of her husband, is reported to be in the habit of misapplying words and quotations very strangely. Her last mot is- When you are at Rome, do as the Romans do; and when you are in Turkey, do as the Turkeys do!'

The man who courted an investigation, says it is not half as good as an affectionategirl. We expect not.

A man was promenading with his son one day, when the little fellow cried out, 'Oh. Pa! there goes an editor? 'Hush, son?' said the father, 'don't make sport of the poor man-God only knows what you may

At a hotel, a short time since, a girl inquired of a gentleman at the table if his cup was out.

' No,' said he, 'but my coffee is.' The poor girl was considerably confused, but determined to pay him in his own coin. While at dinner, the stage drove up, and several coming in, the gentleman asked,

Does the stage dine here? 'No, sir,' exclamed the girl, in a sarcastic toue, ' but the passengers do.'

One of the German almanaes remarks that, 'A young girl is a fishing rod-the eyes are the hook-the smile is the bait, the lover is the gudgeon, and marriage is the butter in which he is fried.'

A PATIENT HUSBAND .- An Eastern editor thus describes in rhyme, the patience of a husband with whom he is acquainted:

'He never said a word. But with a look of deepest melaucholy,

He sat, like Patience on an Ottoman, Waiting for his wife to put her bonnet

PILING ON THE THATS. -- In the course of a debate one of the opposition charged one of the other party with an ungrammatical use of the world that. A coadjutor of the offender rose and addressed the chair .-'Mr. President, I feel it my duty to defend my colleague from the charge of false grammar; and, in so doing, I shall prove by any grammarian you please, that that that that that gentleman used was in strict accordance with every rule of grammatical construction.
